

Quiz time

(Questions concerning the lectures on the introduction, business ethics in the age of globalization, basic concepts and the historical-economic background)

Question 1

The scandal about which burning car is considered an important impulse for the development of business ethics?

- a) VW Polo
- b) Ford Pinto
- c) Opel Kadett
- d) Nissan Murano

Question 1 – correct answer

The scandal about which burning car is considered an important impulse for the development of business ethics?

- a) VW Polo
- b) Ford Pinto
- c) Opel Kadett
- d) Nissan Murano

Question 2

What is NOT a typical question from the domain of business ethics?

- a) Should manager salaries be capped?
- b) Do pharmaceutical companies have special obligations?
- c) When does the fetus begin to be a human?
- d) Can Corporate Social Responsibility become a business case?

Question 2 – correct answer

What is NOT a typical question from the domain of business ethics?

- a) Should manager salaries be capped?
- b) Do pharmaceutical companies have special obligations?
- c) When does the fetus begin to be a human?
- d) Can Corporate Social Responsibility become a business case?

Question 3

What kind of problems are business ethical problems by their very nature?

- a) Inefficiency problems
- b) Inference problems
- c) Interaction problems
- d) Induction problems

Question 3 – correct answer

What kind of problems are business ethical problems by their very nature?

- a) Inefficiency problems
- b) Inference problems
- c) Interaction problems
- d) Induction problems

Question 4

What element is fundamental to business ethical problems?

- a) There is a situation of shortage of goods.
- b) There is no interaction of any kind.
- c) The economy is in a phase of currency devaluation.
- d) Economic agents envy each other for their resources.

Question 4 – correct answer

What element is fundamental to business ethical problems?

- a) There is a situation of shortage of goods.
- b) There is no interaction of any kind.
- c) The economy is in a phase of currency devaluation.
- d) Economic agents envy each other for their resources.

Question 5

What describes the criterion of distributive justice best?

- a) How can we improve the supply of goods to satisfy more demand?
- b) How can we increase the quantity and quality of goods?
- c) How should scarce production factors be allocated?
- d) How should the given goods be shared?

Question 5 – correct answer

What describes the criterion of distributive justice best?

- a) How can we improve the supply of goods to satisfy more demand?
- b) How can we increase the quantity and quality of goods?
- c) How should scarce production factors be allocated?
- d) How should the given goods be shared?

Question 6

What is NOT a common dualistic pair of opposites in the context of business ethics?

- a) Altruism vs. egoism
- b) Ecology vs. economy
- c) Solidarity vs. competition
- d) Profit vs. cost

Question 6 – correct answer

What is NOT a common dualistic pair of opposites in the context of business ethics?

- a) Altruism vs. egoism
- b) Ecology vs. economy
- c) Solidarity vs. competition
- d) Profit vs. cost

Question 7

What was NOT characteristic of pre-modern societies?

- a) possibility of face-to-face control
- b) strong importance of industrial sector
- c) clear notion of a hierarchy of professions
- d) economy was coined by self-sufficiency and risk aversion

Question 7 – correct answer

What was NOT characteristic of pre-modern societies?

- a) possibility of face-to-face control
- b) strong importance of industrial sector
- c) clear notion of a hierarchy of professions
- d) economy was coined by self-sufficiency and risk aversion

Question 8

Pre-modern societies played zero-sum games. What does this mean?

- a) Win-win situations were prevalent.
- b) These societies experienced strong material growth.
- c) Profits were always zero.
- d) The profit of one was the loss of another.

Question 8 – correct answer

Pre-modern societies played zero-sum games. What does this mean?

- a) Win-win situations were prevalent.
- b) These societies experienced strong material growth.
- c) Profits were always zero.
- d) The profit of one was the loss of another.

Question 9

Which view on the value of a good is characteristic of antiquity?

- a) The value of a good is subjective.
- b) A good's value depends on supply and demand.
- c) The value of a good is objective.
- d) A good's value is determined by scarcity.

Question 9 – correct answer

Which view on the value of a good is characteristic of antiquity?

- a) The value of a good is subjective.
- b) A good's value depends on supply and demand.
- c) The value of a good is objective. ✓
- d) A good's value is determined by scarcity.

Question 10

What is meant by the “ethical quality of competition”?

- a) Competition itself improves man’s virtues.
- b) Competition suppresses self-interest for the benefit of society.
- c) Competition channels self-interest such that it serves social benefit.
- d) Competition transforms self-interest into altruistic preferences.

Question 10 – correct answer

What is meant by the “ethical quality of competition”?

- a) Competition itself improves man’s virtues.
- b) Competition suppresses self-interest for the benefit of society.
- c) Competition channels self-interest such that it serves social benefit.
- d) Competition transforms self-interest into altruistic preferences.